General Information: The Òlàjú African Market Creative Arts Festival is dedicated to showcasing arts & culture coming from the African continent. During this one-day event, attendees will be introduced to contemporary art, food, music, & fashion which highlight our diverse cultures in a fully-curated setting. Here, an exclusive selection of vendors will be presenting unique, African-inspired items available for sale reminiscent of an African market. Our 2017 Market drew an audience of about 100 attendees looking specifically to purchase from African brands and we are expecting to host 100-200 for 2018. By carefully curating our vendors and keeping the number low we strive to make the event profitable for all partners.
